Noah Ciglen

Associate

Noah is an associate in our Real Estate Group where he advises clients on all aspects of real estate law, including development, social and affordable housing, commercial sales and acquisitions, leasing and financing.

Before joining Robins Appleby LLP as an associate, Noah worked as both a summer student and an articling student at the firm. As a student, Noah assisted in all of the firm's practice areas focusing specifically on commercial real estate and commercial litigation.

Noah received his J.D. from Osgoode Hall Law School and was called to the Ontario Bar in 2018. During his time at Osgoode, Noah was involved in a diverse number of extracurricular activities and completed a semester abroad at the University of Amsterdam. Upon graduation, Noah was a recipient of the Honourable F.H. Barlow Scholarship for excellence in business law.

Prior to law school Noah worked as a policy analyst for the Province of Ontario and is a graduate of McMaster University's prestigious Arts & Science program, where his studies focused on urban geography.

Outside of the office, Noah is an avid sports fan and competes in a variety of recreational sports leagues.
